Open every evening from Tuesday to Saturday, this Michelin recommended restaurant's menu takes the dinner down the historical 'Silk route', through Italy, the Middle East and Asia, providing exemplary dishes from the different cuisines with a la carte and tasting menus, as well as the 'Silk' (chef's choice) menu.

The Bar is home to the last three remaining prison cells in the building, which have been turned into private booths each seating 6-8 people and are available for private bookings. Here, white-washed walls and felt pens offer the chance for people to leave a permanent reminder of their time behind bars!

The bar serves a range of light dishes including canapés and sandwiches, along with a wide range of spirits, cocktails and juices.

Carnaby, with a separate entrance on Great Marlborough Street, offers a destination for both hotel guests and the general public. Its light, modern décor refreshes the senses and its brasserie style food satisfies the soul.

Open every day for breakfast, lunch and dinner, as well as for brunch at weekends, the dishes on offer range from light Italian bites and breads, to more robust protein-rich salads and fish dishes, ideal for pre and post theatre dinners.

Roof Top Bar: Our latest addition to the stylish Courthouse Doubletree hotel. During summer come and enjoy the sun! Bright white furnishings overlooking the London Roofs, not to mention the endless list of cocktails and canapés available make the rooftop bar the perfect place to unwind in the twilight hours after work. Open from 3pm until 10pm, Tuesday through to Saturday, subject to weather conditions.

Or, if you want to make greater use of one of the more unusual bars in London, why not hire the whole venue for a special occasion?
